Here And There

News Collected At Random

Biglerville, thriving and progressive, is on the move again. The energetic and enterprising citizens of that attractive community are headed for bigger and better things. They want Biglerville to grow and expand and improve.

The old fashioned "Town Meeting" last Wednesday evening drew a capacity audience of intensely interested men and women. They attended this informal gathering because they are brimming over with pride in their community and they wanted to find out just what improvements can be made in the town and, if necessary, correct anything that may now exist which others felt needed correction.

Such community interest serves as a stimulant for better things to come and a tonic that could spread to other folks with less enthusiasm and even to neighboring towns.

The Business club of Biglerville which sponsored the "Town Meeting" is a group of enterprising people and they are making fine strides toward future progress and expansion.

It is a privilege to extend our congratulations to Biglerville and to wish them all of the fine things they have in mind for their community.

KNOUSE FOODS 'FAMILY' HEARS PRESIDENT TALK

In a "pre-production" meeting of key personnel Thursday evening, M. E. Knouse, president of Knouse Foods Cooperative, Inc., presented the management's plans for the processing, distribution and merchandising of this year's pack.

One hundred and fifty key workers, members of the company's board of directors and guests heard current plans and long range policies outlined by Mr. Knouse.

Mr. Knouse prefaced his remarks by stating that "this meeting follows the company's policy of keeping our 'family' informed on what we are doing and what we hope to achieve."

Stresses Integrity

He continued: "The integrity of an organization is of vital importance and takes on greater importance as the organization grows. This integrity reflects itself not only in the processing and production of the merchandise, but also in the actual merchandising and advertising of the products. A long time ago I learned that any individual can only accomplish as much as people will believe in him. In other words, any individual, to do much, needs people to believe in him and accept ideals and objectives. Your accomplishment as a key worker will depend on your ability to have people believe in you and work with you in accomplishing the things we set out to do. If we apply that philosophy, then the future is unlimited, and we can accomplish a great deal.

"To get people to believe in you, your objectives and your ideals must be sincere. You must have honest intent, a desire to be fair, a desire to be cooperative. Then if you have those qualities and you cultivate them, it will result in a sort of magnetism which draws people to you and makes it possible for you to be a leader among them.

"Demand for our products is unlimited if we produce high quality goods backed by integrity."

Need Public's Confidence

Mr. Knouse then explained the company's policy with regard to advertising and sales promotion emphasizing the role integrity would play in this phase of the company's program.

To clarify the company's thinking on advertising, Mr. Knouse quoted a simile: "Advertising to a business is the same as rain is to soil. Rain will turn an arid dry soil into fertile land. But unless man seeds and cultivates the soil, you will have no harvest. Advertising prepares the soil for marketing.

"On of the greatest things," said Mr. Knouse, "is to have a product that people believe in. That is integrity of merchandise. Our products must be as good as we say they are in our sales work and our advertising. It is, however, only by

3 YANKS HELD IN DRAGNET OF SOVIET SPYING

Washington, June 17 (AP) — With three American citizens under arrest, additional pieces are falling into place in the jig-saw pattern of Soviet wartime spying in the United States.

By all indications, further arrests are in the offing, but when and where they will come, no one will say.

However, it is known that scores of FBI agents have spent many months putting together bits of information from all sorts of sources in an effort to complete the picture.

What was perhaps the key piece of the spy puzzle fell into place with the arrest in London last February of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, a top British atomic scientist. Detained by British intelligence on information originally developed by the FBI, Fuchs admitted giving the Russians atom secrets and was sent to prison for 14 years.

Gold Is Courier

After top G-men had interviewed Fuchs in prison last month, the bureau closed in on Harry Gold, 39-year-old Philadelphia chemist, who had long been under FBI watch. Gold admitted acting as a courier between Fuchs and Soviet agents in this country during the war.

With the pattern taking shape, the FBI this week picked up Alfred Dean Slack, 44, chemist employed by a paint manufacturing concern at Syracuse, N. Y., and David Greenglass, 28, former U. S. Army sergeant, of New York city.

Each of the three Americans is charged with wartime espionage, which carries a possible death penalty. Each is held on $100,000 bond.

Slack was accused of delivering to Gold for the benefit of the Russians, top secrets about the manufacture of "RDX," an explosive which was being manufactured by a special American process at the Holston Ordnance Works, Kingsport, Tenn. Slack had been employed there in 1943 and 1944.

Greeenglass To Gold

Greenglass, who was assigned to the Los Alamos atomic project in 1945, and who was described as having worked on the A-bomb itself, was charged with turning atomic information over to Gold at Albuquerque, N. M., in the summer of that year.

With these arrests, the Justice department dropped the previous mystery about the "John Doe, alias John" and the "Richard Roe, alias Sam" who were indicted for espionage conspiracy along with Gold by a Brooklyn grand jury last week.

The department said "John Doe" was Anatoli Antonovich Yakovlev, a vice consul in the Soviet consulate in New York city until December, 1946, when he returned home, and that "Richard Roe" was Semen M. Semenov, employed by the Amtorg Trading Corporation, Russia's commercial agency in the United States.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Gold took his orders from Semenov until the latter left the country in 1944, and that thereafter he dealt with the Soviet espionage service through Vice Consul Yakovlev.

Hickenlooper Wants To Quiz Peurifoy

Washington, June 17 (AP)—Senator Hickenlooper (R.-Iowa) suggested today that the Senate committee looking into the 1945 Amerasia case call Deputy Undersecretary of State John E. Peurifoy for questioning.

Hickenlooper made the suggestion as the inquiry group arranged to take testimony behind closed doors next Thursday from Career Diplomat John S. Service, one of the six persons arrested in the secret documents episode five years ago.

Service was cleared in the case and returned to duty in the State Department. The case involved the removal of hundreds of secret government documents found by the FBI in the offices of the now-defunct Amerasia magazine.

Both Peurifoy and Service figure in a separate Amerasia controversy touched off by Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.) in a speech Thursday night.

$2 MILLION FIRE IN SOUTH

Winter Haven, Fla., June 17 (AP)—A multi-million dollar fire that raged out of control for hours destroyed one of the Florida's largest citrus plants early today.

Police officials estimated that damage to the Sprawling Polk Packing association plant would exceed $2,000,000.

The fire was discovered about 11 p.m. (EST) last night in a second-floor office in a building adjoining the main packing plant. It spread quickly to other structures on the ten-acre installation, and fire fighting apparatus from seven nearby towns were summoned to aid in fighting the blaze.

At the height of the fire, flames leaped 400 to 500 feet in the air, and persons 40 miles distant reported they could see the glow.

The huge processing and canning plant, with about four acres of building space under roof, produced both orange and grapefruit concentrates. About a quarter of a million boxes of citrus fruit were lost in the fire.

Equipment from Bartow, Lake Wales, Lake Alfred, Haines City, Lakeland, Eagle Lake and Auburndale aided Winter Haven firemen in bringing the fire under control shortly before dawn.

Three firemen were casualties—none serious.

John Snively, owner of the plant, said he expected the loss to reach $2,500,000.

Things Of The Soil

FACTS ABOUT BEAN BEETLES

The Mexican bean beetle demonstrates one of the most remarkable appetites among all common garden insect enemies. Because of its amazing capacity to eat almost unbelievable quantities of bean foliage, it often destroys an entire planting of beans in a few days of uninterrupted feeding.

Second only to the beetle's gastronomic feat is the fact that gardeners have been acquainted with this invader from 18 to 30 years, seeing it destroy their beans year after year, yet many persons have not the faintest idea how to control the pest. Many do not even recognize the spiny, orange-colored larva as the young of the adult beetle but think this likewise hungry foe is another kind of insect. Surely, in the light of these truths, information on the habits of this garden enemy and how it may better be curbed should be repeated over and over.

The adult beetle is easy to identify. It is roundish, copper colored, and has 16 black spots on its back, eight on each wing cover. The larva or young is a fuzzy grub, covered with numerous spines, yellowish or orange-colored. Both the adult beetle and the larval form feed on bean plants. And at this point particular stress should be placed on the fact that almost all feeding occurs on the under sides of the leaves, the beetle rarely eating entirely through the top or surface membrane, the larva never penetrating the top surface. Herein lies the major explanation why so many gardeners have failed in the past to curb this destructive foreigner,—they have applied control insecticides only on the top surfaces of the leaves.

Wholly without foundation or even with a shred of warrant for the assumption, rural communities have heard various "reports" of entire families made sick by eating green beans which have been sprayed to control the beetle. Occasionally the more daring of circulators of these rumors have stated that they knew of a "certain man" who died from the poison.

Two facts stand to refute these foolish ideas. First, even if the housewife did not wash green beans before cooking, and even if such unwashed beans had been sprayed but a few days before they were picked to cook, one person would have to eat somewhere near a bushel of such beans to obtain enough poison to cause illness, much less death.

This entire fallacy can be disposed of with one sound fact: If the bean beetle is combatted with rotenone when the pests first appear, there will be few occasions when combat will be necessary after beans begin to form. But even if spraying or dusting is necessary after beans appear, rotenone is relatively safe.

Gardeners with but small plantings of beans may reduce the beetle population by inspecting the plants every few days and crushing the masses of eggs fastened to the under sides of the leaves.

Of course, neighbors should cooperate in a program of war against this foe because the egg-laying adult readily flies from farm to farm and from garden to garden.

To condense direct combat into one rule—Coat the under sides of the leaves with rotenone as soon as beetles or their spiny larvae arrive; continue combat as long as any survive.

Pittsburgh City Clerk Found Dead

Pittsburgh, June 17 (AP)—A city clerk whose name has been mentioned prominently in the city's current "free work" investigation, was found dead of a gunshot wound in his home today. Police said a 30-30 rifle was found alongside the body of Robert Laun, 36.

Laun was named yesterday as one of two men responsible for materials at the city's Tunnel street maintenance shop.

City Solicitor Anne X. Alpern, who is conducting the councilmanic investigation, said Laun "inevitably" would have been called to testify.

The investigation resulted from the death of Salvatore Dilelsi in a highway accident last year. Dilelsi's widow claims he was working for the city when the mishap occurred in Butler county. She seeks damages and workmen's compensation. Testimony yesterday concerned the disposition of city-owned building materials.

Dewey Will Not Seek Re-election

Albany, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—Governor Dewey today said he would not be a candidate for reelection.

He said he probably would enter private law practice when his term expires next December 31.

Dewey said he was very tired after 20 years in public life but that there was nothing wrong with him that a first-class long rest would not cure.

Dewey's long-awaited decision apparently left the field clear for the nomination of 74-year-old Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley for governor at the state convention in Saratoga Springs September 6-7. He is regarded as far in the lead for the nomination.

Asked whether he had a choice, Dewey said:

"I shall not attempt to dictate the choice of the convention of any candidate for any office."

The U. S. Agriculture Department says frozen orange juice marketed in the 1948-'49 season would make a block 60 feet wide, five feet deep and a mile long.

U. S. plantings of safflower increased 20 times in three years from old 1946 acreage of 2,000.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)

There's a red hot race in progress today for second place in the Eastern league. Albany and Binghamton are tied for the spot, but Utica is trailing by only one game and Hartford is a game behind Utica.

Williamsport is two games back of Hartford and Elmira, a half game from Williamsport.

At the extreme ends are the Wilkes-Barre Indians, eight and a half games in front of the pack, and the Scranton Miners, 17½ games down.

Binghamton moved into the tie last night by splitting 2 doubleheaders with Scranton, while Albany was losing two to Williamsport. Binghamton took the opener at Scranton, 12-0, and lost the second, 7-2. Williamsport edged the Senators, 2-0, and 7-6. Wilkes-Barre took a pair from Utica, 6-3, and 5-4, and Hartford squeezed past Elmira, 4-3.

Interstate League

(By The Associated Press)

Trenton's fast-moving Giants bounced into the Interstate league's first division today, riding a six-game winning streak.

The giants hung two defeats on the Sunbury Reds last night, 3-2 and 5-4, and moved into fourth place a half-game behind Harrisburg's Senators who kept pace with a 4-1 triumph over second place Wilmington.

The Blue Rocks lost another game to the league leading Hagerstown Braves who trounced cellar-dwelling Lancaster, 8-2. York and Allentown divided a twin bill, York taking the 4-3 opener and Allentown the 5-2 nightcap.

Joe Serada and Jim Micchiche in a pair of pitching gems for the Giants, winners of last year's Governor's cup. Serada shaded Jim Miller in a tight pitching battle in the opener as all four runs scored on fielding miscues.

The Braves widened their first place margin over Wilmington to five and one-half games as Al Bennett tossed a three-hitter at Lancaster to register his eighth victory. Wilmington fell victim to Ed Narhfly's lefthanded slants as the Harrisburg Southpaw set the Blue Rocks down with five hits.

Today's games: Trenton at Allentown (2), Hagerstown at Sunbury, York at Harrisburg and Wilmington at Lancaster.

ELKS NOSE OUT GARAGEMEN 2-1; T.L. TRIUMPHS

Two of the finest games played this season in the Softball league were staged Friday evening and when the smoke of battle had cleared the Elks had nosed out the Glenn L. Bream garage 2-1 and the Texas Lunch was in first place through a 7-0 win over the VFW.

The opening game was easily the best game played to date. Ross Sachs of the Elks and George Fair of the garagemen hooked up in a beautiful pitcher's battle all the way.

A walk to McCleaf, single by Sachs and an outfield fly gave the Elks a run in the first inning. In the next frame Woods scored what proved to be the winning run when he raced home on a wild pitch. The lone run for the losers came in the third when Abe Hankey reached third base on his drive between right and center field and tallied on an outfield fly. Thereafter the teams played to a stalemate with fine fielding on the part of both teams.

Taking advantage of the upset of the garagemen, the Texas Lunch vaulted into undisputed possession of first place by scoring the first shutout of the league season at the expense of the VFW.

In the opening inning the lunchmen tabbed three runs and picked up a pair in each of the third and sixth frames. Meanwhile Bartholomew set down the vets with a pair of singles. Himes poled a homerun for the winners.

Orrtanna moved out of the cellar of the Adams County league and pushed Littlestown into its former spot by winning a 6-3 decision Friday night under the lights at Hanover. The game, which was attended by a large crowd, was played as a benefit for the Warner hospital and was sponsored by the Littlestown auxiliary. Ossie Bluege, former major league star and manager and now director of the farm system of the Washington Senators, attended.

The winners scored a pair of runs in the first inning and led the whole way. Rebert permitted Littlestown eight hits, four of which were secured by Smith, including a pair of triples. Orrtanna pounded out 11 safeties.

Lawson Little Leads Field At New Rochelle

New Rochelle, N. Y., June 17 (AP)—After pausing briefly to chase Jack Burke, Jr., the field is bark on the trail of Lawson Little in the fourth round of the slightly dizzy Palm Beach golf tournament today.

Little, first-round leader of the 16 competing pros with a point total of plus 15, lost the lead to the curly-haired Burke in the morning round of yesterday's play, then won it back again in the afternoon to finish the day with plus 21 and a three point lead over his closest rival, Claude Harmon.

Eighteen holes will be played today over the Wykagyl country club course, with the final 18 tomorrow, and with the standings changing with startling rapidity the eventual winner was a matter of wild guesswork.

The tournament is played on a round robin basis, with each of the 16 competitors playing in a foursome with each other contestant in one of the five rounds.

Strikers' Wives Are Planning Action

Pittsburgh, June 17 (AP)—Wives of a number of striking milk truck drivers are going to try to do something about the strike today.

An official of the Greater Pittsburg Milk Dealers association received a telephone call from the wife of one of the 3,250 strikers. She said she and several other wives wanted to talk things over with industry leaders.

The official said that idea sounds like a new one in labor negotiations and that he and other industry leaders will meet with the women today to see what can be done. That meeting is set for 10 a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

Two hours later industry leaders will confer with representatives of the striking union, the AFL Milk and Ice Cream Driver Salesmen and Dairy employes, Local 205.

Washington, June 17 (AP)—Strong Senate opposition developed Friday against a bill to relax some of the provisions of the Hatch Act barring federal employes from partisan political activity.

Broadsides against the measure came from such diverse political figures as Senator McKellar (D.-Tenn.), a southern Democrat, Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee, and Senator Humphrey (D.-Minn.), a "Fair Dealer." Each has different reasons for his dislike of the bill.

Twelve million gallons of orange juice were frozen in 1948-'49 compared to 266,000 gallons in the 1945-'46 season.

LOOP RULES ON PROTESTS; PLAN ALL-STAR GAME

One protest was thrown out and another upheld in a special meeting of officials of the South Penn Baseball league Friday evening at the American Legion home.

A protest lodged by Bonneauville on the eligibility of Bill Seiders, Barlow hurler, was rejected and Seiders ruled eligible according to league by-laws.

The other protest was on an alleged balk by Charley Kitzmiller of Gettysburg in a game played May 21 at Green Springs which the local team won 4-2. It was decided the contest will be finished from the inning in which the play in question developed. The game will be finished next Thursday evening at Green Springs and in the event of rain that evening will be played on June 27.

Johnny Grinder, Barlow manager, and Charles Snyder, pilot of the Granite team, were selected as the managers for the All-Star teams who will stage a game on the Gettysburg field July 16 for the benefit of the injured players' fund.

President Dawson Miller presided at the meeting.

PREACHER ROE SNAPS STREAK FOR CARDINALS

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Preacher Roe must be public enemy No. 1 in St. Louis. Every time the Cards get hot, the lanky southpaw from Hardy, Ark., holds up the stop sign.

The Preacher man did it again last night, snapping a seven-game St. Louis win streak, as he pitched Brooklyn to a 7-3 victory. The result slashed the Cards' lead to 2½ games.

Beating St. Louis is old stuff for Roe, who once toiled in the Card chain gang. Last year he whipped the Red Birds four out of five. So far this year he's 3-1 against St. Lou with more than half the season to go.

Ninth For Sain

Roe wasn't exactly a mystery to the Cards last night, yielding 10 hits. But he didn't need to be a master. Brooklyn scored four runs, three of them unearned, in the second inning to ruin Red Munger.

Johnny Sain, making the pitching comeback of the year, won his ninth for the Boston Braves on Sam Jethroe's ninth inning single with two out. Jethroe's hit, prolonging his hitting streak to 12 games, scored Sibby Sisti for a 6-5 edge over luckless Pittsburgh.

Al Dark and Hank Thompson provided the power for the New York Giants' Sheldon Jones in a 6-1 victory over Chicago, the Giants' ninth win in 12 games.

The only day game in the majors, Cincinnati at Philadelphia, was rained out.

Detroit Beats Boston

Hal Newhouser whipped Boston for the second time in six days, 4-1, before 54,086 Detroit home fans.

Four of the players involved in the eight-man deal Thursday night saw action as the New York Yankees downed St. Louis, 7-5. Joe Ostrowski and Tom Ferrick pitched for the Yanks and Jim Delsing and George Stirnweiss played for the Browns.

Ostrowski stopped a Brownie threat in the seventh after starter Vic Raschi was knocked out. Then he was lifted for a pinch hitter. Ferrick finished up with two scoreless innings but the win went to Raschi. Delsing drove home two St. Louis runs, scoring one. Stirnweiss, playing third base, knocked in one with a double and also scored one. Alex Kellner, hit by a Dale Mitchell line drive, was in a hospital when his Philadelphia A's finally lost a 3-2 game to Cleveland. Kellner was hit on the left temple by the liner in the fifth and carried off the field. X-rays disclosed no fracture. Shortly after Kellner's injury, Luke Easter hit a two-run homer that won the game.

Ray Scarborough pitched Chicago to its sixth win in a row, 7-1 over Washington. He walked 10 but allowed only five hits.

Fights Last Night

Seattle—Harry "Kid" Matthews, 175, Seattle, knocked out Phil Muscato, 186½, Buffalo, 1.

New Orleans—Bernard Docusen, 147, New Orleans, outpointed Ralph Zannelli, 145, Boston, 10.

Hollywood, Calif.—John L. Davis, 134¾, Oakland, Calif., outpointed Joe Brown, 134¾, Chicago, 10.

Sport Shorts

New York, June 17 (AP)—Either Laurent Dauthuille of France or Tiberio Mitri of Italy will get the June 28 title shot at middleweight champion Jake Lamotta.

A "break" in the title bout came yesterday when Rocky Graziano was forced out with a left thumb fracture. The International Boxing club spent most of the night looking for a "sub." The promoters insist there definitely will be a fight. But then, Jake has to agree too.

State Allied Orders Of GAR In Session

Harrisburg, June 17 (AP)—A five-day encampment of Pennsylvania Allied Orders of the Grand Army of the Republic opened here today.

In a proclamation of welcome, Mayor Claude R. Robins, declared: "Such observance will keep alive in our hearts the memory of these gallant men in blue, who have all passed on, but whose deeds will never be forgotten."

The encampment included more than 2,000 representatives of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, the Women's Relief Corps, the Auxiliary of the Sons, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic and Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

The hippopotamus is native to rivers and lakes of East Africa.

KINER UNABLE TO HIT FORMER HOMER STRIDE

Boston, June 17 (AP)—Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh Pirate home run slugger, says he can't relax at the plate.

The man the experts believe is the most likely to beat the late Babe Ruth's record of 60 homers in one season admits he's worried—he's collected only 13 homers and is batting only .268. The Californian is spending hours of his "off-duty" time trying to figure out what's wrong.

Kiner admits he has been swinging at bad balls, something he didn't do last year or the year before.

"I get real anxious up there," Ralph said, "especially when pitchers don't give me an opportunity to hit. I remember one game in Pittsburgh against the Giants.

"I was a little angry about the way they pitched to me. I walked four times and struck out the other time. In the five times at bat, there were only three pitches in the strike area. And those three came during one time at bat. Things like that make a fellow press a little, especially when the club is going downhill."

So far, Kiner has received 45 walks.

His biggest trouble, when he connects with the ball, is that he's sending booming drives to center field which are caught for easy outs. Last year the big right hander was noted for his snappy wrist action which enabled him to hit power drives to left field and account for 54 homes.

Last spring Kiner injured his wrist in a collision during an exhibition game. He was out of action more than two weeks and favored the wrist when he got back into the lineup.

In 1946, his first year in the majors, Kiner clouted 23 homers for the Bucs. He followed that with 51 in 1947, got 40 in 1948 and 54 last season.

Although Kiner is worried about his output this year, he isn't too far behind his 1949 pace. If he can hit two more homers by June 20, he will pull exactly even.

Sports Roundup

By JOHN CHANDLER

New York, June 17 (AP)—Pull up a saddle, and let's take a little ride with wiry Eddie Arcaro, the jockey man who has ridden great horses as well as prime glue factory prospects.

Often at Jamaica racetrack and elsewhere the $2 bettor who has just watched Arcaro lose aboard a a favorite will give with the Bronx cheer: "Boo, Banana Nose, Boo."

Some boo, and they're not kidding. Others might join in with a laugh, just for vocal exercises. But most of them have to agree the guy is one of the greatest riders in the history of the American turf.

Now at the ripe age of 34 the little Italian booter who drives a shiny Cadillac is still going strong. Perhaps he'll quit riding one day, and start training horses. However, he's still the most sought-after jockey in the country. He's a free lancer, and picks his mounts. As long as his annual income hits six figures, why not get it while he can? Maybe he couldn't train a horse worth a lick.

Six figures. That's $100,000 or so per year. When Joe DiMaggio or Ted Williams sign a contract for $100,000 a season, the headlines scream.

In the spring of 1948 Eddie agreed to ride Citation for Calmuet farm. It was like giving somebody the keys to a bank. But Ben Jones, the Calumet trainer, knew whom he wanted on the horse. The announcement didn't cause much of a sports page splash.

Citation won 15 races, lost one under Arcaro that year. The horse earned $644,995 in those races. So Arcaro collected his usual 10 per cent of the stake money, or more than $64,000, with just one horse. That doesn't include the fees from riding several hundred others.

In 1949 Arcaro rode horses that earned $1,183,309. Of those races, about $700,000 came from stakes. Arcaro had 870 mounts, with 194 winners. Owners pay riders a minimum of $25 to ride, with at least $50 if they win. In many cases it is 10 per cent, whether it's a stake or not. So Arcaro's absolute minimum last season was $43,500 if he got only $50 for each winner, and $25 for the others. Few realize that other top riders like Steve Brooks, Ted Atkinson, Johnny Longden and Gordon Glisson come close to six-figure incomes each year.

They must be athletes, just as much as a football player, fighter or baseball player. It require muscles and nerve as well as brains to handle about a half ton of surging horseflesh. Most riders have had spills, some have been killed. They take a chance every time they get on a horse.

Arcaro takes his booing calmly, doesn't try to give it back to the fans. Naturally at times he is burned by the remarks. He manages to keep that poker face, nevertheless.

The words to the patriotic hymn, "America," were written in 1832 by a theological student, Samuel Francis Smith, to the tune, "God Save The King," which he found in a German songbook.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOD

If I were in doubt as to the existence of God in the world, I would not go to books of theology, nor to the age-long discussions of religious leaders, with their endless discussions of rites, dogmas, creeds, and cults. I would walk out into Nature and look about me—for there would be God at work.

I have never read the writings of a great naturalist who did not believe in God. And more than that mere belief. Someone once asked the greatest naturalist Henri Fabre, world famous for his research and life-long study of insects, if he believed in God. He replied: "I do not believe in God—I see Him everywhere."

Wherever you see in nature, mystery, miracle, beauty, form, color, drama, and wonder, there you will be viewing God. I have always liked to look upon the out-of-doors as God's great Cathedral, as it surely is. There you will see Him celebrated from early dawn to the fully lighted heavens, and even beyond.

You can see God in the intricate formation of a single leaf, or in the perfect coloring of the tiniest and least know flower of the fields. You will hear Him in the song of every bird. And every waterfall is an anthem to His glory. Note Him, also, in the intricate and beautifully woven spider web, or in the multiple eye of the fly!

I once wrote that you could even see God in the wag of a dog's tail, and I still believe that this is true, for wherever kindness, love, or simple trust is enacted, there you will note an expression of the living God. One of my favorite stories in the Bible is that of the widow's mite, for she gave all that she had. God was in that simple and generous heart.

Mere belief in God is not enough. We must see Him, experience Him, walk and talk with Him—be one with Him. The whole world is lighted up when we do. We can never know God by continually questioning Him, or doubting Him. Evidence of His supreme will and creative force is illustrated everywhere. Acceptance of Him is the supreme and most important decision of our lives!

Flowers in a garden gay,
Smiles at the open door,
Children nearby at play,
Money buys little more.
Rest when the tasks are done,
Love, when the sorrows fall,
Counting the riches won,
These are the best of all.

Friends to depend upon,
Clouded or fair the sky,
An asset (the precious one)
Money can never buy.
Home by glad hearts maintained,
Mansion or dwelling small,
Counting the riches gained,
These are the best of all.

Faith for the time of tears
Watching a loved one die,
This, when the day appears,
Money cannot supply.
When the last bend is turned,
Waiting the final call,
Bequeathing the riches earned,
This will seem best of all.

Club to Install

A sealed program and installation of the recently elected officers is on the agenda for the monthly meeting of the Woman's Community club of Littlestown and vicinity to be held Wednesday at 7:45 p.m. in the P. O. S. of A. hall. The committee in charge of the program includes Mrs. Melvin Wehler, chairman; Mrs. Esther R. Wolfe, Mrs. George I. Bemiller, Mrs. Melvin Miller, Mrs. Edgar Orndorff, Mrs. Ralph C. Unger, Mrs. Gilbert Royston and Miss LeOra Held. Hostesses will be Mrs. Albert Lawyer, chairman; Mrs. Richard Hartlaub, Mrs. John Kindig, Mrs. George I. Bemiller, Mrs. Charles W. Weikert, Mrs. E. Roy Kindig, Mrs. Carrie Wine and Mrs. James H. Spalding.

Judy Plank, near Two Taverns, was hostess to the Littlestown 4-H club on Friday afternoon. Miss Mary Jane Mickey, Adams county home economics supervisor, instructed the girls in building outdoor fires for cooking. The girls roasted wieners and toasted marshmallows. Nine girls were present. A committee consisting of Joann Snyder and Erika Kaseburg, appointed at the last meeting to select a name for the club presented the name "Littlestown 4-H Dungaree club," which name was adopted by the girls. The next meeting will be held Friday, June 30 at 1:30 p.m. at the home of Madell Ripka, Littlestown R. 2. Each girl is requested to bring one-half yard of heavy material to make a knapsack, and also a large empty can to use for cooking.

Benefit a Success

Approximately 600 were in attendance at the benefit baseball game between Littlestown and Orrtanna on Friday evening on the Littlestown Memorial Field whe Orrtanna defeated Littlestown by a score of 6 to 3. Proceeds from this game go to the Littlestown unit of the Warner hospital auxiliary to help defray the expenses of remodeling the diet kitchens at the hospital. A spokesman for the Littlestown unit said that this benefit was a "pronounced success" and a statement of the proceeds will be published as soon as all the money is in turned and the expenses are paid.

Clayton L. Evans, high school coach, was master of ceremonies for the program which preceded the game. Mr. Evans introduced Ossie Bluege, a former star third baseman and manager and at present director of the Washington Senators baseball farm teams. Mr. Bluege congratulated Littlestown on having such a fine athletic field and praised the people of the community for supporting this benefit. "I am very glad to be a part of this benefit program," he said.

Following Mr. Bluege's remarks, the local VFW Drum and Bugle Corps, Bernard Weaever, drum major, presented a musical program and drill.

William C. Bender, Harrisburg, district commissioner for the National Baseball Congress of America district tournament, announced that the first game of the tournament will be played on the Littlestown Memorial Field, Monday at 8:30 p.m. The contest will be between Emmitsburg and the new Franklin Cardinals of near Chambersburg. There will be only one game on Monday night. Give Closing Program

A large number of parents were present on Friday morning in Redeemer's Reformed church to witness the closing exercises of the Littlestown Community Daily Vacation Bible school in session in the Littlestown Grade school building Monday through Friday for the last two weeks. The Rev. Kenneth D. James, dean of the school, was the presiding officer. Each department presented a brief program as follows:

The pre-school groups, Mrs. Donald C. Arbogast and Mrs. Robert Miller, co-superintendents, presented the following songs which they were taught: "Good Morning," "I Pray to God," "Praise Him," "My Daddy," "What Makes the Children Grow," "Sail Your Boat," "Friends, Friends" and "Jesus Christ is My Dear Friend"; prayer; finger exercises, "Ten Little Squirrels," "Tom Thumb" and "Five Little Soldiers"; recital of memory verses.

Expect 100 Scouts

The Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, superintendent of the Junior (B) department, left Littlestown for a two week's chaplain's course at Ft. Meade. His place in the school was taken by Samuel H. Higinbotham for the last two days.

Following the program, the diplomas were presented to the pupils in the classrooms and the parents viewed hand work done by the pupils. Friday afternoon, the pupils enjoyed a picnic. The small children had their picnic at the grade school building. The other children spent the afternoon on the playground, where each department presented their own program of activities. All pupils and teachers of the school were treated to ice cream and soda by the school.

From present reports, there will be approximately 100 girl scouts and leaders at the Camp Little Girl Scout Day Camp which will be held next week, Monday through Friday at St. John's Lutheran church woods, near town. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

When you've forgotten to buy a Canasta prize, it's comforting to remember that you can use that new hood ornament.

The High Compression Myth

What with all the talk about higher compression one would assume this is something devoutly to be desired. Actually there are many objections to higher compression, and no one knows this better than the men who daily work on cars. The higher the compression the cleaner the engine must be kept. This means more frequent carbon removal. Higher compression also means need for more critical ignition timing. Today the average owner thinks he is being taken for a ride if a mechanic suggests a timing checkup.

So it goes. Higher compression means higher operating temperatures, more risk of head and block warpage, more difficulty keeping gaskets from leaking, more strain on bearings. It is common knowledge that fuel has to be far better when compression ratios are stepped up, and this introduces the element of fuel cost. Finally, there is performance. Some seasoned mechanics know that often an engine with not so high compression will outsmart one which is hopped up, just because the latter is handicapped by pinging or lack of high torque at lower speeds.

Too High Oil Level

One of my good readers has come up with an excellent explanation as to why the oil level in a motor can rise too high without there being excessive dilution or a cylinder head water leak. Curious to know why the dip stick read such a high level he took down the motor pan and was rewarded by finding the screen to the oil pump intake clogged. Cleaning this dropped the oil level and and everything was back to normal again. It was just a case of the oil not leaving the pan fast enough when the motor was running.

Well To Remember

When there's evidence of misfiring or missing in the engine better have a compression test made as soon as possible. Low compression in any one cylinder will allow oil to pump up on the spark plug. That results in fouling its points so that a miss is unavoidable.

It pays to carry an extra fan or generator belt, but install it and use the old one as the spare. It's just like working in a spare tire.

It always pays to switch off the engine if caught in a traffic jam. Idling mileage is about three times that for ordinary driving. But when you restart the motor remember to open the throttle wide by going down slowly on he accelerator.

Mechanic Joe Speaking

"One of the chief reasons why there are so many worn front tires is simply because car owners do not realize that tire balance must be continuous. Wear on tires from careless braking or misalignment causes unbalance that has to be corrected by re-checking. Another common cause of unbalance is the shifting of balanced weights during sudden stops, especially where the tire happens to be underinflated or the car is swinging into a sharp curve at the time."

Matter Of Safety

It isn't necessary to be posted on all the technical angles of braking to know that any braking system's point of highest efficiency is just as the brakes are being applied. Here there is maximum friction between the tires and the road surface. For this reason it is always smart to pump on the brakes. Some call the process "dabbing" the pedal. Continued pedal pressure. The latter just lowers braking efficiency.

Except for the official publications of the automobile clubs, the American public has for many years been without a consumer automobile magazine. Motor Life was the last of the consumer magazines in the motor field, Motor having switched over to become the leading trade journal. Since then the field has been wide open with no one appearing to be willing to take the plunge.

Now, however, something new is happening in the motor world, and a new publication known as "Motor Trend" has caught the point of it. Especially in California there are a number of companies specializing in sports cars, restyling of production cars and the general hopping up of motors. Motor Trend not only is capturing the fancy of those who like this sort of thing but is getting advertising support from the many new companies offering such services.

It begins to look as if some leading publishers, not to mention the Detroit car makers, have missed a good bet.

Brief And Pointed

If your car is one with radius rods you may find that rear wheel misalignment is the result of these rods becoming bent or loose.

Compression loss often is due to not having sufficient valve tappet clearance. When the engine warms up compression is lost because of valve stem expansion.

Hot water heaters no longer carry a vent for releasing trapped air, but if the air doesn't work out naturally you can disconnect the upper hose for a moment and release the air that way.

Meaning Of Those "Knees"

After so many years of knee action front wheels it is interesting to record that one of the chief advantages of this type of front end is the ability to use very soft front springs and to relieve these springs of both braking and power torque. This brought into the picture the coil type of spring which isn't affected by friction or water or lubricant. It has nothing to do on the car but dampen the shock of the wheels hitting highway humps and bumps, and is also aided by the shock absorbers. This was a great step forward in the lessening of front-wheel shimmy although many a driver who never drove fast enough to get shimmy with his older cars doesn't fully realize this. The coil springs have so much less to do. I drove about two years with a cracked one and never noticed any difference.

The Motor Primer

Just by the way of review, let me point out that the ignition condenser is composed of a series of sheets of tinfoil which are separated from each other by an insulator such as mica, or sheets of wax paper. The thing is built up like layers of a cake, but when all together is smaller than a stick of chewing gum. Usually when it fails it breaks down quickly. Wax around it is one evidence of a breakdown. Its purpose is merely to suppress current that would continue to flow across the gas of the breaker points, thus arcing, when they are so suddenly broken.

Airing Their Troubles

Q. There is considerable leakage of fluid from the left front brake cylinder of my car. Have replaced the piston but this doesn't seem to help. H. L. J.

A. You will find that the bore of the cylinder is rough and will need to be honed.

Q. How can new piston rings increase oil consumption. Even if they did not improve oil mileage I do not see how a new set of rings could make the situation worse. D. McB.

A. This is because the ring grooves are worn. After being cleaned out the grooves should be fitted with wider rings. Sometimes ring expanders will increase oil consumpby allowing oil to suck up behind the rings.

Q. Is there any way to lengthen the life of the muffler and the tail pipe? I am getting tired of having to replace these. W. W. R.

A. Of course there are better mufflers which you could use. I understand that if a muffler is coated with aluminum it will have a much longer life.

Q. I have been told that one of the 1950 cars does not have high tension ignition wires to the spark plugs. Check to see for myself and see the wires as usual. Yet two mechanics tell me there actually are no wires. H. N. B.

A. That's right. They look like wires because of the outside insulation but actually the conductors of the high tension current are cables of multiple threat cores made of linen or rayon impregnated with a graphite solution. These make an excellent conductor but eliminate radio and television interference.

Q. Is there such a thing as a metal filter element? G. L.

A. This is the latest. The element is made of finely spun metal. It passes fuel but not dirt or lint, and it can be easily flushed.

Q. Do you still think hand rubbed paste wax best for protecting the finish of a car, new or old? W. R. T.

A. This makes a fine job, in my opinion. It takes time, but results are worth it.

Q. Is there any way to tell if the clutch of a car is slipping? Gas mileage is way down on my car and I suspect that I am losing power at the clutch. T. H. F.

A. This is simple. Set the hand brake, start the engine, put the gears in low. Now slowly let the clutch pedal come up, and meanwhile accelerate the motor. If the engine stalls immediately the clutch is all right. Incidentally a slipping clutch is usually accompanied by motor overheating.

REPUBLICANS SELECT ISSUES FOR CAMPAIGN

Washington, June 17 (AP)—Republican senatorial candidates appeared agreed today their best campaign issues involve alleged Communists in government, the Brannan farm plan, deficit spending and proposed excise tax cuts.

These four emerged as major talking points in a survey made by the GOP senatorial campaign committee and National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson. The survey covered primary election results in Iowa, South Dakota and California.

Senator Millikin of Colorado, who heads the conference of all GOP senators, told a reporter he will dwell on those points in his own campaign for re-election. He said other Republicans whose seats are at stake this year generally are of the same mind. Assured of renomination, Millikin is expected to be opposed by Rep. John A. Carroll (D.-Colo.).

Millikin's handling of the explosive Communists-in-government issue also may become something of a pattern for Republicans who aren't closely identified with the investigation of charges made by Senator McCarthy (R.-Wis.).

Two Schools Of Thought

In campaign speeches, Millikin has said that while McCarthy may not always have been as meticulous as possible in making his charges, he, Millikin, is convinced the Wisconsin senator is "trying to clean up an unwholesome mess in Washington and is being obstructed in doing it."

However, three of the 13 Republican senators whose seats are at stake this year signed the "declaration of conscience" prepared by Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R.-Me.). This declaration said Democrats were guilty of laxity toward Communist leaks but at the same time said "certain elements" of the Republican party had contributed recklessly to national confusion and fear.

The three, Senators Aiken of Vermont, Tobey of New Hampshire and Morse of Oregon, could be expected to be somewhat more critical of McCarthy's methods.

On the other hand, three Republican candidates—Senators Capehart of Indiana, Young of North Dakota and Dworshak of Idaho—joined 18 other GOP members in demanding a judiciary committee investigation into the Justice departments handling of the Amerasia case.

Reds Think Western Union Is Newspaper

Philadelphia, June 17 (AP)—Russian authorities in Berlin apparently believe there is an American newspaper named "The Western Union."

Paul Warner, director of the Philadelphia Inquirer's editorial page, was in the German city several weeks ago and decided he wanted to enter the Soviet sector to watch the mass propaganda demonstrations.

Warner was getting no where fast with the Soviet officials until he produced a Western Union Telegraph Co. card entitling him to use its facilities in filing dispatches.

The card caused an immediate flurry of excitement and in a few moments, Warner was handed a press card authorizing him to view the mass demonstrations. On the card, Warner was identified as "staff writer of the Western Union."

AWARD CONTRACT

Harrisburg, June 17 (AP) — The General State Authority today awarded contracts totaling $62,726 for alterations to Horton hall at Shippensburg State Teachers college. The work consists of installing fireproof stairways in the building and providing new lounge space on the upper floors.

Chapter 31

The serious stranger turned to Andrew as to a responsible person. "I was just telling your friend, sir, that a stranger can't be too careful in this city. There is a complete disregard for human life which disgusts me, sir."

"Disgusts me too," agreed William solemnly, and they repeated, "Saved my life."

"Pity," said Andrew tersely.

He called a taxi.

"Thank you," he said to the serious man. "My friend is just a little high. I'll take care of him."

"No one is going to take care of me," said William with dignity. "I say, let us all go and have another drink and talk about Shakespeare."

The taxi driver pushed his cap back, grinned, and Andrew put his foot out as William moved, and tripped him neatly so that he disappeared backwards into the taxi. He got in beside him, waved goodbye to William's startled rescuer, and gave the man his address.

"What were you doing in Katherine's hotel?" asked Andrew. "Waiting to see her?"

"I saw her go out with you, so I waited to see her come back. She hasn't changed a bit. A little brown bird. The nightingale."

"Were you going to speak to her?"

William laughed. "Would you, if you were me? I don't dare to speak to Katherine, or Morton, because Morton would bawl me out, and Katherine would be sorry for me."

"What are you going to do now?"

"Go back to England."

"You weren't going to let her know that you were in New York?"

"Good grief, no, man," said William with weary impatience. "She is a lot better off without me."

The taxi drew up, and he paid the man. Together they managed to get William to his feet, stuck his hat on his head, and with considerable difficulty Andrew got him upstairs. He turned the light on in the big lounge, and deposited William in a chair. He flopped back, with his long fine hands lying against the arms of the chair, his head resting against the cushions. Andrew turned and called exasperatedly for Morton, who came in a huge, cowled dressing gown, Moorish slippers flopping from his feet, a glass in one hand and a copy of Rabelais in the other. He stopped and stared.

"I've brought home the prodigal," said Andrew irritably.

If he had expected Morton to be angry, he was disappointed. The great fat figure shuffled forward, and bent down. "Humm," he said. "Where did you find him?"

Andrew told him.

He regarded William again, with a tenderness that was completely ludicrous. "Looks like Hamlet in the last act," he said. "I was always going to have him play it. Didn't tell him, though. Quite conceited enough as it was, and," he added with sudden indignation, "I wasn't going to offer it to him to tempt him away from Hollywood."

"'Good night, sweet prince, and flights of angels sing thee to thy rest.' Go on, say it," said Andrew savagely. "Here he is, helpless, hopeless and gormless, as they say in Yorkshire. And we are all going to put him on his feet again with our blessings. He deserves a good whipping."

"Yes," said Morton gravely, "and he's had it. He'll never let anyone know that, of course—except perhaps Katherine. Come along; let's get him into bed."

"Why?"

Morton regarded him in amazed indignation. "He's got to be in shape for that audition tomorrow," he said.

Andrew had asked the telephone exchange to give him an early call so that he could be at the office early. He put the receiver back and, hearing a vague sound in the hall, went out. William, who apart from a slight darkness about the eyes was looking his normal graceful self, was creeping toward the front door, his shoes in his hand.

"Where are you going?" asked Andrew.

William said ingeniously, "I'm awfully sorry about being such a blasted nuisance last night, Nolan. I was trying to get off without disturbing you. It was decent of you to look after me, but I must be going now."

Andrew said irritably, "Put your shoes on, and don't use that prep schoolboy act with me. I know you too well."

William laughed and sat down on the hall chair to put his shoes on. One of the most endearing qualities he had was that he never bore malice if one saw through his affectations.

"Oh, come and have some coffee," Andrew opened the door of the other bedroom, and shouted, "L.M.! Your prodigal is trying to run out on you."

There was a scuffle inside, and Morton came to the door blinking like an owl. William went white, and stood up like a disgraced schoolboy, his face averted. Morton said crossly, for it was too early for him to put any emotion into the scene, "Well, what have you to say to me?"

For a moment William was stripped of his pretenses. For a moment there was no posing, acting, no deliberate charm. He put his hand across his eyes, ashamed, humiliated, admitting defeat. Then he turned toward the door again, with a sort of blind, fumbling movement, and Andrew felt his heart twist with pity. He saw then, with a clarity that hurt, the weakness beneath the shining beauty and the breathless talent, and he saw what it was that chained Katherine to him, heart and imagination. He saw too that it was only when she was separated from him that she was weak, purposeless, drifting and afraid—that she needed his help. With William she was strong and brave, alight with her talent and love, swift to comfort, brave as a motherbird to protect him. He saw then that his dreams of protecting her were the merest foolishness, that these two strange and talented children were two parts of a whole; that without each other they had no existence, but together they could conquer the world.

SEEK $25,000 LOST BY DEATH

Philadelphia, June 17 (AP)—Police today searched for $25,000 reported to have been in possession of Robert E. Carroll, 67-year-old Drexel Hill, Pa., drug salesman found dead on Pennsylvania railroad tracks in North Philadelphia.

The police investigation was spurred by statements from the dead man's wife, Evelyn, who said her husband was returning to Philadelphia from New York city with $25,000 after closing a business deal. No money was found with the body.

Coroner Joseph Ominsky said he learned of the money after talking to Mrs. Carroll at her home. Ominsky said he had checked the story with Paul Stauber, a New York broker, who told him he had represented Carroll in the sale of rights to a chemical formula Thursday.

The coroner said no details of the deal were given but that Stauber was coming here today at his invitation to discuss the negotiations. The dead man's attorney, Harvey Geiger, told the coroner that Carroll had gone to New York to make a deal with a British concern. The attorney said Carroll telephoned him from New York Thursday and said:

"Everything's fine. The deal is closed. I'll be in your office by noon tomorrow. I'll bring the cash with me."

In a preliminary report, Coroner Ominsky said the body, although cut and bruised, showed no injuries that could not have resulted if Carroll had been pushed or fallen from a train.

Littlestown

Littlestown-Mrs. Lloyd L. Stavely, Park avenue, was hostess on Thursday night to the Alta Hummer Missionary society of St. John's Lutheran church, and Mrs. Samuel Renner was leader. The topic, "The Lutheran Church in British Guinea," which was written by the Rev. Hector Magalee was divided into three sections. Section one dealt with the country and was discussed by the leader; section two concerned the people and was explained by Mrs. Harry O. Harner. Section three was about conditions in British Guinea and was presented by the following readings: "The Church at Work," Mrs. Dale Starry; "Illiteracy," Mrs. Elmo Jones; "Poverty," Mrs. Lloyd L. Stavely; "Heathenism," Mrs. Lloyd L. Stavely; "Ignorance and Superstition," Mrs. George Cool; "Drunkenness and Immorality," Mrs. Paul Bowers; "Needs," Mrs. Frank Hollinger; and "Conclusions," Mrs. Sylvester Rickrode. A general discussion of the topic followed as well as the monthly magazine quiz in charge of the leader. The scripture lesson was read by Miss Evelyn Aspers and prayer was offered by the leader.

Business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Paul King. Sixteen members and four visitors were in attendance. A guess package donated by Mrs. Renner was received by Mrs. Harry O. Harner. Games followed with the prize awarded to Mrs. Kenneth D. James. A white elephant party followed the meeting. The next meeting will be in the form of a hobo party on the church lawn on Thursday, July 13. Members are requested to come dressed appropriately and bring their lunch in a handkerchief tied on the end of a stick. Mrs. Sylvester Rickrode will be the leader.

Miss Helen Myers, Littlestown R. 1, chairman of the convention committee for the annual convention of the Adams county Christian Endeavor Union has anounced that the convention will be held Friday, June 23, at 7:30 p.m. in St. John's Lutheran church, Littlestown. The convention theme is "Build with Christ." Guest speaker will be Dr. Norman W. Paullin, who is minister of the Baptist Temple in Philadelphia, and also pastor counsellor of the Pennsylvania Christian Endeavor union. He will also be one of the evening speakers at the state convention. Other members of the convention committee in addition to Miss Myers are John Hoffman, Bendersville, and John Plank and the Rev. Charles Held, Gettysburg, R. 1.

Girl Is Missing On Powder Puff Derby

Scranton, Pa., June 17 (AP)—One of the 13 contestants in the "Powder Puff" derby, a Montreal-to-West Palm Beach, Fla., air race, was missing today somewhere between Scranton and Florida.

The girl, Marjorie Harrison, of Washington, D. C., was not heard from after she took off in the rain from Avoca airport near Scranton at 1:34 p.m. (EST) Thursday.

By midnight last night all other 12 contestants either had completed the race or had made known their whereabouts.

Civil Aeronautics officials said the search for Miss Harrison will be complicated by the fact that no one knows what route she intended to take from Scranton. The officials said that all the contestants kept their routes secret so that others in the race would not know their paths.

The first Colonial American author was Capt. John Smith, who in 1608 wrote "True Relation," the account of the Jamestown settlement.

DISASTER HITS CROOKSVILLE, O.; FAMILIES LOST IN FLASH FLOOD

Crooksville, O., June 17 (AP)—Disaster swept into this pottery-making community of 3,000 today when a flash flood broke a nearby dam, exploded a huge kiln and set off a fire which burned two potteries to the ground.

Two families were missing after their homes were swept away.

The dam-bursting flood followed a terrific cloudburst which cut a wide swath through Ohio from southeast to southwest.

Crooksville lies 20 miles south of Zanesville in south central Ohio.

Official damage figures were not available. But a member of the Crooksville Fire department, Calvin Ross, said he believed it was at least $1,250,000 to three plants alone—$750,000 to the potteries and $500,000 to the big Ohio Power company station here.

No one would hazard a guess as to the damage to business houses and homes.

The cascade of water gushed down a narrow valley from the broken Misco Mine company dam five miles southeast. Residents of Crooksville's low-lying areas scrambled to their rooftops.

Five houses in the tiny community of Rose Farm near the dam were washed away by the first rush of water late last night.

Three of the families were accounted for. No trace of the other two was found. They were not immediately identified.

When the avalanche of water hit Crooksville, the state highway patrol reported, one of the town's main streets immediately became a river five feet deep.

Panic spread as the water coursed through the town. The wave of water engulfed the Ohio Power company's Crooksville station and all electric power in Crooksville and surrounding communities ceased.

As frightened citizens frantically sought refuge in the darkened town, the water reached a huge pottery kiln at the Acme Pottery company. The kiln blew up with a spectacular puff of flame.

Almost immediately, the entire pottery, which normally employs more than 300, was a mass of flames.

Between 30 and 35 persons who had sought refuge in the pottery building were rescued without casualty. Firemen were unable to reach the plant because of the water and the building was leveled.

The fire spread to the adjoining Ceramic Pottery company plant and destroyed it, too. It normally employs about 200.

The avalanche of water, which started its rush northward from the broken dam in Black Fork creek, roared into Jonathan creek south of Crooksville, poured through the town and northward to Roseville, another pottery-making community of 1,500 about five miles north of Crooksville.

As the flood began to recede here early today it began to rise rapidly in Roseville, but the force of the flood had somewhat diminished.

Word that the dam had broken sent scores of rescue workers rushing to the scene. The highway patrol, the National Guard and the Red Cross sent equipment and manpower.

Four Army ducks, two from McConnellsville and two from Newark, were aiding in rescue efforts. Red Cross equipment arrived from Newark and 15 to 20 boats were dispatched from Buckeye Lake, 30 miles away.

The patrol's efforts were impeded by the power failure which cut off its radio transmitters at Hebron and Lancaster, both in the general area of this stricken community.

The common brown hare raises her young in solitary manner. After they are a few days old, she finds a separate form for each and visits them each night for suckling.

New Oxford

New Oxford—The Rev. Robert D. Hartnett, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Catholic church, who is at present in Rome to participate in a Holy Year Pilgrimage, has as his substitute in the parish duties the Rev. Fr. Stanley of the Precious Blood Order, from Baltimore. Father Stanley expects to remain here until June 26 when another priest of his order will relieve him and be in this section until Father Hartnett returns in July.

Harvey J. Smith has nearly recovered from the severe injury to his right hand sustained three weeks ago while he was working.

Miss Maria Noel is chairman this year of arrangements for women of the Immaculate Conception Catholic parish to participate in laywomen's retreats this summer at the convent in Columbia. Any women interested in these retreats or desiring further information have been requested to call Miss Noel whose telephone number is New Oxford 8-R-3.

Miss Wilma Snyder was among those entertained during the past week in Hanover at a surprise party tendered Mrs. Glenn E. Garvick of that city.

Twenty-four young people have successfully completed the eighth grade of the local parochial school and are eligible for high school entrance as freshmen next fall. They are: Charlotte Mary Aumen, JoAnn Elizabeth Bevenour, Gloria Gebhart, Yvonne Hockensmith, Barbara Ann Robinson, Josephine Shoemaker, Joanne Marie Smith, Philip Lee Crouse, Thomas Hockensmith, James Luckenbaugh, Robert J. Mahone, Frederick A. Miller, Wilbur J. Noel, Donald J. O'Brien, Pius A. Small, Burnell F. Smith, Henry J. Smith, Thomas E. Smith, Shirley M. Smith, Timothy R. Barrett, Donald Kuhn, Teresa Mary Martin and Kermit J. Smith. Most of these expect to attend Delone Catholic high school, McSherrystown.

The orchestra of the local high school sponsored a "Summer Dance" at the high school auditorium Friday evening and also furnished the music. The dance was open to the public and dress was informal.

Summer Communion will be observed Sunday, June 25, at the New Chester Reformed church of which the pastor is the Rev. Alton M. Leister. Preparatory service is scheduled for Sunday, June 18.

Adjournment Fever Runs High In Senate

Washington, June 17 (AP) — Adjournment fever appears to be running high in the Senate several weeks early.

Sideline observers were wondering whether it was the real thing or more of a contest between Democratic and Republican leaders.

Democratic Leader Lucas, of Illinois, has been taking daily opportunities to predict that Congress can complete action on a big jam of must legislation and get away by July 31.

Wednesday two Senate Republican leaders, Wherry of Nebraska and Taft of Ohio, got into the act by agreeing with Lucas after carefully inserting some GOP "if's."

Wherry, the Republican floor leader, said Lucas had handed him a list of more than 20 bills that should be passed before Congress quits to go campaigning. If Lucas would trim his list in half, Wherry opined that everybody could go home about August 5.

The pupils of the eyes of rattlesnakes and other pit vipers, which are mostly nocturnal hunters, are spherical at night, but in the daytime contract to a vertical slit, thus cutting out bright light.

So you want to raise soybeans in narrow rows and corn in wide rows, and your cultivator doesn't fit? You're just the man I'm looking for . . .

The man in this picture is just 10 minutes and one field away from a soybean cultivating job. When he's through cultivating corn, he just drops the corn cultivator and attaches his bean cultivator to the same Farmall C tractor mounting frame. His ground tools stay "put" . . . he's ready to go . . .

You can jump from one job to the other, too, with a Farmall C and this matched team of cultivators. And—best of all—both of them respond to the magic of Farmall Touch-Control . . . to give you effortless Fingertip Farming.

There's a wide choice of ground tools to fit your soil conditions. And there's a full line of Farmall C mounted, quick-change implements for every farm job . . . all raised and lowered by Farmall Touch-Control.
